Catholic schools are communities of faith, knowledge and service. The Catholic school environment is a place where students explore their faith, excel in their academics and act on the values of service. The advantages and benefits of the Catholic schools environment are clear. The average ACT score of Alleman students is five points higher than their Illinois Quad City public school counterparts – resulting in more college scholarships and acceptance to competitive colleges and universities. Class sizes are small, allowing students to have excellent support and instruction from faculty who bring an average 35 years of experience in education. Alleman students annually exceed their required service hours as they grow in their faith and develop their moral commitment to help the world.
